

INT. SUE'S HOUSE. DAY

Sue is sitting at her living room table doing a card reading... she is smoking a cigarette.

There is someone sitting opposite of her and there are tarot cards spread out on the table in mid-reading formation...

SUE

Ok, so this one's interesting... Do you believe in ghosts? Spirits? The dead coming back to haunt the living?

We see the person sitting opposite of her to be Kyle.

KYLE

Have you ever seen a ghost?

SUE

Well I don't believe in ghosts. You have to believe in something to see it.

KYLE

What do you believe in?

SUE

I believe in lots of things. Only things I choose to though. You should never believe in something you don't want to.

Sue takes another card from the pile and drops it into the arrangement.

SUE

I believe in second chances...

Kyle watches her as she does so. She takes another card and drops it into the arrangement.

SUE

I believe the moon landing was fake...

SUE

but because people believe it was real it sucked all the magic out of the world...

She takes another card and drops it into the arrangement.

(CONTINUED)

SUE

I believe there is someone for everyone...

She takes another card and drops it into the arrangement.

SUE

But there's not just one person for everyone... just possibilities.

Sue looks up at Kyle.

KYLE

What you do does't every scare you? When you're right? Does't make you feel like a crazy person?

SUE

Realizing you're psychic is a lot like realizing you're not crazy. You either embrace who you are or you fight it. Everyone is something. I try to stay open to the possibilities of what's out there.

Kyle smiles.

KYLE

So, is there a possibility of getting a drink with you?

SUE

(Change to a serious and professional tone)

I... I do try not to get involved with clients however. It gets really complicated, really fast.

KYLE

That's just relationships though. Right?

SUE

Lets keep this about you.

KYLE

Who says I was talking about you.

SUE

You were thinking it.